LOU'S VIEWS

Reservations are coming in for New Year's Eve and Gallatin and I are really excited about it! We'll have dancing that night and we have the music lined up, the menu and favors planned. It promises to be a good party.

This adobe was always known in the early days of Monterey for its gay parties. We're going to maintain that tradition. Wouldn't you like to join us?

Love and kisses and a merry Christmas!

Meeting Last Monday Of Monterey Music Teachers

Members of the Monterey County Branch of the Music Teachers Association of California met Monday evening, December 18) at the Graham Music Company in Carmel for the regular monthly meeting.

In an atmosphere of Christmas cheer and good will the members first had a short business meeting. It was decided that the association would meet the first Wednesday of each month at 12:30 for a luncheon meeting. For the program part of the evening Victor Drilea, tenor, sang a group of three songs: "O del mio amato ben" by Donaudy, "Shepherd's Cradle Song" by Somervell, and "A Wish" by Charles. Mrs. Victor Drilea played the piano accompaniments.

The evening concluded with a get-better-acquainted social hour. Sandwiches, Christmas cookies and punch were served.

Sunday School Hour At Christian Science Church

Beginning January 7, 1951, First Church of Christ, Scientist, Carmel, will conduct a Sunday School at 11 A.M. on the church premises, Monte Verde, between 5th and 6th. Young people up to 20 years of age are invited to attend.

The Bowers Hosting

Dr. and Mrs. Richard L. Bower are hosting an eggnog party on Saturday. This party has become an annual custom looked forward to by their friends and neighbors. Asked to assist the Bowers are Dr. and Mrs. Wesley Heard, Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Swim, Mr. and Mrs. John Lovett, and Mr. and Mrs. Feg Murray who are currently making their home on the Peninsula. Mr. Murray is the well-known cartoonist.

Townsend - Schermerhorn Nuptials

Miss Mary Ellen Townsend, daughter of Colonel and Mrs. George L. Townsend of Pebble Beach, was married last Friday to Lieutenant Dale Vernon Schermerhorn, at St. Johns Chapel, Del Monte, at 4:30 in the afternoon, with Reverend Theodore Bell performing the ceremony. Mimi, as she is known to her friends, was attended by her sister, Mrs. Roger M. Dudley, of San Mateo, and Miss Shelagh Scoville, with Lieutenant (jg) William Warde serving as best man for the groom.

The bride's gown was of white satin with a cut-away skirt edged with lace revealing underskirts of net, and having a short train. Her cap was of lace, satin and pearls, and she wore a fingertip veil. She carried a prayer book topped with Valley lilies.

The matron of honor and the bridesmaid were dressed alike in emerald green satin and carried sheaves of silvered wheat, with bandeaus of green moline and sprays of the wheat.

The flower girls were Pamela and Susan Dudley, nieces of the bride, who were dressed in deep red velvet and wore bandeaus of red roses. They carried baskets of red roses.

Mrs. Townsend, mother of the bride, wore a gown of beige crepe and lace, and wore brown and green orchids.

At the close of the ceremony a guard of honor was formed by six fellow officers, their crossed swords forming the arch beneath which the newlyweds walked as they left the chapel.

Mrs. Schermerhorn attended Douglas School at Pebble Beach, and graduated from Virginia Intermount College at Bristol, Virginia.

Lieutenant Schermerhorn is the son of Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Schermerhorn, of Hazelton, Iowa, who were unable to attend the wedding. He is a graduate of Upper Iowa University and served on mine sweepers in the last war. He has been in the Navy for eight years and has just graduated from the General Line School, Monterey.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Townsend home at Pebble Beach, which was beautiful with Christmas decorations and white chrysanthemums. In Navy tradition the wedding cake was cut with the bridegroom's sword. After the bride and groom were toasted with champagne, they left for a honeymoon in Southern California. On January 2, Lieutenant Schermerhorn reports for duty, and Mimi will return to her parents' home.

PEBBLE BEACH NOTES...

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel F. B. Morse are entertaining with a Christmas party for Mr. and Mrs. Richard Osborne (Mary Morse) and their three children, Susan, Charles and Mary Lithgow, on Wednesday evening, evening, the Osbornes leaving on Thursday. They are flying to Auburn, New York, to spend the holidays with Mr. Osborne's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lithgow Osborne, and will return after the first of the year.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hunt returned on Wednesday from New York, where they have been visiting for several weeks and enjoying many of the new shows. The Hunts are having a group of friends for Christmas dinner at their home.

Mrs. Henry Potter Russell spent the weekend at her Carmel Valley home.

Flying East For a White Christmas

Jules Selcer of Carmel flew East Wednesday of this week to visit his wife, and to attend a family reunion at the home of his wife's sister, Mrs. Harvey Blodgett, Jr., in Ponfret Centre, Connecticut. Mr. Selcer will remain in the "land of white Christmases" until January 15.

Family from Europe To Join Dr. Heisler

Dr. Friedy B. Heisler of Carmel is looking forward to the arrival this Sunday of her husband, Francis Heisler, and son, Ivan Heisler, M.D., from Europe.

Dr. Ivan Heisler has been a civilian physician in the European Command. Prior to leaving for the United States he spent six weeks in England visiting hospitals--for recreation catching up on recent plays.

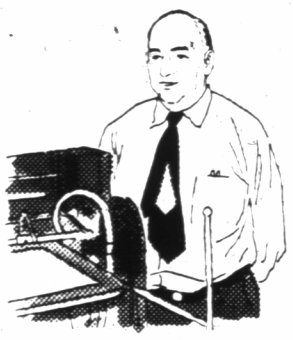
Meet our snowman . . .
He helps develop your State's resources!



This is Charles Hillis of San Jose, one of San Jose's pioneer printers. Along with nearly 170,000 other investors, he has put part of his savings in P.G. and E. stock. Through this investment we have been able to build the dams, powerhouses and miles of line necessary to develop the hydroelectric resources of the State and bring you electricity at rates among the lowest in the whole nation.

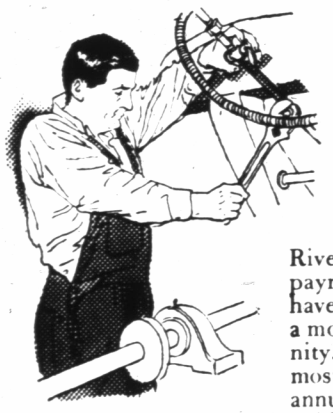
A lot of your next year's electricity and water supply are now shining snow packs high in the Sierra. Each year we send men by ski or helicopter to measure the water content of these packs so we can determine the reserve as a guide to control of the runoff in some 122 P. G. and E. lakes and reservoirs and 779 miles of canals. By this means we conserve every drop possible.

This water supplies you and some 2¼ million other P. G. and E. customers with electricity. But that is only part of the job. For we send this snow water along undiminished to the farms and orchards, homes and towns, and cities and industries where it contributes to the health and wealth of the State.

Now we'd like you to meet some folks who benefit by P. G. and E.'s development of the State's resources...

Meet Russell Keene, our snowman. Russ and other hydrographers go annually into the snow country to measure the pack. Russ plunges a 20-foot aluminum tube into the snow, then weighs it to determine the water content of the snow it brings up. From these measurements our hydro-engineers can estimate within 10% how much water will be available after the Spring thaws. Russ works out of Fresno. He was a ski-trooper in the last war, has been with us 5 years. In the background is one of the helicopters that can, in a matter of hours, land a snowman in rugged country that would take weeks to reach on skis.

P·G·and E·
PACIFIC GAS AND ELECTRIC COMPANY



Meet John C. Gilbert, who operates a machine shop in Oroville. To merchants and businessmen like Gilbert, and folks who work nearby, P. G. and E.'s investment of over $100,000,000 in the Oroville and Feather River areas, and its annual payroll of over $550,000 have meant better living and a more prosperous community. And, incidentally, almost 20% of Butte County's annual property tax bill is paid by P. G. and E.

Here are Ernest Blaser and son, of Live Oak. Like some 50,000 other ranchers in our territory, the Blasers depend upon electric pumping for irrigation. Irrigation is in large part responsible for California farmers' annual income of around 2 billion dollars. Yet P. G. and E. power for farm pumping averages only 3.5% of crop production cost. Thus does P. G. and E. help develop the State's agricultural resources.

"TAKE IT EASY" Says CHIEF KLAUMANN

"The Christmas and New Year season always results in an increase in traffic fatalities and accidents both to motorists and pedestrians," Chief Clyde Klaumann of the Carmel Police Department said in an interview yesterday. "I HOPE EVERY-ONE ENJOYS THEMSELVES, but please drive carefully and look where you are going when walking or driving. Excessive drinking will get you in trouble. Let's be moderate and play it safe."

Thank you, everyone, for everything you did for us at the CAROUSEL. See you next year!

Carmel Ballet Academy Gives Fine Performance

A really professional performance was given last Saturday evening by the Carmel Academy at the Sunset School auditorium in Carmel. Miss Joanne Nix presented a score of beautifully trained and exquisitely costumed pupils in the ballet, and climaxed the program herself with an interpretation of the Swan Ballet--perfectly executed.

"Winter Interlude," with which the program opened, was not only very lovely, but timely--even in snowless central California, accenting the winter holiday spirit. Renne Wurzman in a solo part, Bonnie Wager as the "Snow Fairy," the two diminutive "Drivers," Rosalie Di Maggio and Pamela Gamble, Sibyl Kocher as "Winter," and the skaters, Robbin Burnham, Donna Work, Pamela Beales, Wendy Burnham and Gail Da Roza--most daintily costumed--were the personification of grace. Both solo and ensemble work gave evidence of skillful and good hard training.

Nicely titled "Petite Paris," the second part of the performance featured Pamela Beales in a Can Can Ballet (if one can stretch his imagination to picture the can-can interpreted ballet-wise). Renne Wurzmann, as the dainty little "Fille de Fleur," Pamela Gamble as "Une Midinette" and several supporting "Artistes" put on a gay, animated and very "Frenchy" performance.

Concluding the program was the "Ballet Beautiful"--"Vienna Woods Ballet, featuring Sibyl Kocher, "Moonlight," by Elizabeth Johnson, an exquisite ballet-minuet, with Robbin Burnham as featured soloist, a number titled "In the Forest," in which graceful Pamela Beales did some of the loveliest dancing of the evening, "Summer," entrancingly interpreted by tiny Rosalie Di Maggio (truly an artist in the making), and the Swan Ballet. Miss Nix's own dancing and that of her more advanced pupils was noteworthy. We certainly compliment her on the remarkably fine performance.

Special comment should be made about the costuming by Scardina and the decor by Wasserman. The settings were done with artistic and technical skill, and lovelier costumes could not be seen on any stage.

"Harvey" Produced By Civic Drama Guild

The Civic Drama Guild of New York presented the Pulitzer Prize play "Harvey," last Monday evening, at the Pacific Grove High School auditorium. Authored by Mary Chase, this appealing comedy, which has been such a nation-wide success, was directed by Stanley Woolf, the sets done by George Dunkel, the entire production under the personal supervision of Stanley Woolf.

Perhaps those who saw Joe E. Brown or Frank Fay play the lovable Elwood P. Dowd would have experienced a twinge of disappointment in this presentation, but not having seen either of their interpretations of the part this reviewer thought that Robert Paquin did a very nice piece of acting. He was convincing in his simple child-like effort to please, his natural lovableness despite his "peculiarities," his good use of pointed lines which hinted at the possibility of a greater wisdom to be found in simplicity and untrameled imagination than in sophisticated, conventional and so-called "normal" thinking.

After a rather luke-warm response from the audience to the first scene, Paquin won obviously warm approval as the play progressed, receiving enthusiastic applause at the final curtain.

Pearl Ford as Veta Simmons, the futile, flighty middle-aged sister, who, it materialized, also "saw" and conversed with the tall (six foot, one and a half inch), white rabbit, "Harvey," and who had exciting, if frightening and disheveling, experiences at Chumley's Rest, did a consistently good job throughout the three acts. If Avril Gentles somewhat overdid "Myrtle Mae"--after all, how could one be a "Myrtle Mae" without overstepping the usual and normal? Dr. Chumley (Irving Karesh) was well cast for his part of the pompous and bombastic little psychiatrist who became far more human and likable when he, too--yes, even the learned psychiatrist--made the acquaintance of "Harvey" after a convivial hour at a bar with "it" and Elwood, and changed his theretofore rigid professional disbelief in the existence of friendly rabbits.

Wendell Mayes as Wilson, the hospital attendant, Phyllis Manning as Ruth Kelly, R.N., and Victor Finney who played the parts both of young Dr. Sanderson and the taxi driver, gave good support.

Cast Selected For Senior Play

Rehearsals will start January 2 for Carmel High School's senior play, "Murder in a Nunnery," which will be given at Sunset Auditorium the evening of March 16.

The play, a mystery drama, will include a large number of seniors in its cast. In the lead will be Kate Brania as the Reverend Mother, and other parts have been given to Pat Merivale, Barbara Horne, Sherrie Henderson, Kathy Seipel, Schatzi Herron, Audrey Campbell, Marilyn Moffatt, Lillian Lee, Alys Knight, Elizabeth Yarra, Mairs Jones, Suzanne Smith, Deborah Geering, Howard Veit, Conrad Ege, Rod Dresser, Al Greene, Bill White, Jan van Neil, Barbara Berg, Pat Harn, Carol Templeman, Nancy Nutter and Carol Stewart.

Stage managers Mike Mc Clure and Edwina Brown will be assisted by Bill Daniells and Carol Ann Smith, and the technical staff will include Linda Bain, Charles Lane, John Monroe, Jan van Neil, Charles May, Thor Rasmussen, Sharon Jones, Hans Doelman, Frans Doelman, Chris Williams, Jim Moran, Nils Reimers, John Reibek, Fay La Mar, Barbara Tracy, Donna Douglas, Diane Lewis, Jean Hallett, Laurence McEntire, Ruth Anne Moffett, Clare Wermuth, Susan Salsbury, Sally Reichard and John Edmonds.

Christmas Greetings
There is a spirit that pervades our world during this season. You feel it in the joy of giving gifts . . . in the offering of wishes to those around you . . . in the hymns and carols. It is especially necessary, in these times, to spread this spirit to all . . . to attend the church of our choice and pray that the light of the Lord show us our way once more.

SPORT SPOTS

By Kurt von Meier

Almost, but not quite! That tells the story of last Saturday's annual Pacific Grove-Carmel basketball classic, won by the Grovesters 33-32.

Nip and tuck all the way, the Breakers successfully broke up a last-minute Padre tally and forged ahead for the final tally. Chuck Shina proved to be the man of the hour for the Red and Gold Cagers, by canning the deciding bucket in the waning seconds of play.

Hank Overin and Bob Updike carried the Padres' torch for the last quarter, and kept the Carmelites in the game until the final gun.

Overin walked away with high-point honors, canning 13 markers. Updike scored six digits for the Padres.

John Lewis and Bill Riddle proved to be the downfall for the Carmel rooters, each chalking up nine counts.

DADDY'S COME HOME or WHO TAUGHT THAT DOG TO TALK

By DAVID PRINCE

When they were married everyone said, "What an ideal couple. Why, she is a perfect foil for him." But no one realized how foiled he was going to be.

Her name was Daisybloom something-or-other, not that it matters because her boy friend, George, always called her Gadget. He called everything Gadget and was known among his friends (which he made as easily as he lost them) as a card, a character or a stinker--depending on how recently they had been introduced. However, he was a hearty fellow with a great gift of gab which ran on interminably whether anyone was listening or not. This suited Daisybloom fine as she never had a thought in her homely little empty head anyway.

He was in foundations and brassieres and other merchandise about which his boss knew nothing. Being a very brassy salesman with a special foundation, he soon reached more peaks than any other man in the company.

George and Daisybloom spent many a happy hour sitting hand in hand saying nothing while he did all the talking. It was no surprise, therefore, when they married--much to the relief of all their friends who were only too glad to get them both out of circulation.

Daisybloom proved a great help to her husband in his work as she had a figure like a ferry boat and could gain or lose weight at the drop of a hat. Whenever George wanted to model a new bra or foundation, he dropped his hat and there was Daisybloom looking like the "Before" or the "After" in a weight reducing advertisement.

One day when George was choking on a mouthful of crackers Daisybloom got a word in edgewise for the first time since they were married. "Something has happened," she said.

"Speak up, Gadget," spluttered George, "Stop talking so much and come to the point!"

"A gadget, I mean," says she.

"A gadgette, you mean," roars George, spraying cracker crumbs all over the place.

"Gadgette is feminine," says Daisybloom. "I thought you wanted a boy."

"That's what I mean," says George. "A girl who will take after me and have something to say once in a while. We gotta have one normal woman in this family."

"But suppose she takes after me?" sighs Daisybloom.

"If she does, I'll take after both of you," says George, kicking the furniture around in a vile temper.

Daisybloom soon wished she had not mentioned the matter as it became clear that George was brooding over the possibility. He would go for minutes at a time without saying a word, and began to lose weight, his appetite, his interest in race horses, liquor and other women.

Then one day George burst in the door (the last door they had left, too) more like his old self.

"I've been ordered to Africa as the missionaries have not been uplifting as they should and we got just the product for the job. Furthermore, Bird-Brain, the silence around here is killing me and sales have fallen off in this territory.

"Does not my delicate condition mean anything to you?" pleads Daisybloom.

"It sure does," snarls George. "That gadget will probably be a boy and that is bad for business. Why don't you go to Carmel where there's a shortage? I'll be home for Christmas." And so George leaves for Darkest Africa with a suitcase full of bras. Heigh-o-the merry-o--with a suitcase full of bra.

Daisybloom s on found a darling little basement room in Carmel for $200 a month and sat down silently to await the blessed event. At first she enjoyed the absence of George and would spend hours practicing getting words in sidewise instead of edgewise. She made friends carelessly and would often have someone from Pacific Grove in for an evening of silence.

Although George had been gone about three years Daisybloom did not worry because he had not said what Christmas he was returning for. Besides she had been very busy trying to teach her son, Gadget, to talk. Unfortunately he took after his mother and after two years refused to say a word.

Then one day help came from an unexpected source. She had gone to a bar to get away from her silent son. A man offered to sell her a talking dog and she was just about to give him the money when the bartender said, "Don't be a sucker, lady, that man can't talk. The dog is a ventriloquist."

Thank goodness, thought Daisybloom, here is the answer to my problem if George ever comes home.

"Lady," said the dog, "This may not be the best thing that ever happened to either of us but you don't look like the gabby type and I am willing to come home with you even if you did pay too much for."

"Well, you are coming home with me," said Daisybloom. "I hope you are housebroken and will eat scraps. By the way what is your sex?"

"Sex?" says the dog, "what page is that on?"

"My, can you read too?" asks Daisybloom astonished.

"Yeh, minds," says the dog. "Something is bothering you, madam. Spill it!"

So she told him about her son. How he was going on three, wouldn't talk, and what George would do if he ever came home.

"Well, that's easy," says the dog. "I will help you. Just be sure I am around whenever George and the kid are together. I will dub in the kid's end of the conversation and George will never know the difference particularly, as you say, since nobody ever gets a chance to talk when he is around. Now there is just one favor I will ask of you. Don't, please don't, ever whistle for me. One time there was four girls whistling at somebody on Ocean Avenue and I darn near got run over trying to make up my mind. I have been very nervous ever since."

Finally it was the day before Christmas and just as she had feared George came home.

"My boy," booms George bouncing the lad off the ceiling, "speak to me."

"Daddy's home," says the dog from under Daisybloom's skirts. "Hiya, kid."

"Say, listen to that. A gyp off the old block. Son, you and I are going to have a long heart to heart talk."

"That's what I was afraid of," sighs the dog. How about talking Ubangi? You must have learned something over there."

"I did, my boy, but not for such tender ears."

Iva Kitchell In Dance Recital

Many laughs will be in order for the members of the Monterey Peninsula Community Concert Association when they view "Ia Dance" as presented by Miss Iva Kitchell on Tuesday, January 2, in the Pacific Grove High School Auditorium at 8:15 P.M.

Man's ability to laugh at himself--and love it--is the human quality on which Iva Kitchell has built her successful repertoire of comic dances. These dances are satire in motion. Her ridicule is subtle and often depends upon nothing more than a slight bit of overdoing for its effect. If a dance is sentimental, Iva makes it just a little too sentimental; if it is breast-beating in the modern style, then she thumps just a trifle too hard. Looking slyly out of the corner of her eye, she thus tells her audience that this is the way Kitchell honestly feels about such things.

During the course of a concert, Kitchell dances satirically about many things and kids the tights off of Ballet.

Not content with dancers as targets, Iva also ribs a toothy hostess and similarly harried citizens. Walter Terry, of the New York Herald Tribune, said, "No one is safe from Miss Kitchell, but who would want a more rollicking fate than to be caricatured by her."

One of the most popular satires is "Soul in Search." Miss Kitchell takes searching souls for such a satanic bedraggling, that patrons have laughed themselves into stitches and spasms in no less austere a place than Carnegie Hall.

The doors of the auditorium open at 7:30 o'clock and the curtain rises at 8:15. There will be no single admissions sold for this concert.

Blood Donor Recruitment

Prospective blood donors will again have a chance to send a pint of their life-saving fluid to aid our fighting men in Korea when the mobile Blood Bank makes its monthly appearance in Monterey on December 28.

Whole blood collected is sent on its way to the front within 24 hours of donation. The process is speedy and painless, and the blood is quickly and naturally replaced by a normal, healthy body.

Appointments to donate can be made through Carmel or Monterey Chapters of American Red Cross. Telephone Carmel 7-6921 or Monterey 2-5851.

Capt. R. W. Truitt, Chaplain of the 12th Naval District, in an appeal for donors, said today:

"The fighting in Korea has resulted in many casualties--thousands of wounded. But we are thankful today for the large number of servicemen who are returned to normal life and health through the skill of our medical men and the use of life-saving whole blood.

"We thank God for those patriotic Americans who have given to our fighting men their gifts of whole blood. The blood and plasma donated by Americans through the American Red Cross provides a new lease on life to men on the battlefields and in military hospitals.

"I urge all healthy men and women between the ages of 21 and 60 to add your gift of blood to the servicemen who are fighting for our country."

Meeting of Committee On Alcoholism

The third meeting of the Monterey Peninsula Committee on Alcoholism was held at the home of the William McNamees, Pebble Beach, on Thursday, December 14. Present were William Kneass, Mrs. K. W. Hisgen, Dr. and Mrs. Edwin Tucker, Miss Marion Kingsland, Dr. Kenneth Francis, Homer Thomas, Reverend K. Fillmore Gray and Allan Pattee.

The meeting, one of several the purpose of which has been to develop plans and organization details for the permanent establishment of a Monterey Peninsula Committee on Alcoholism, was conducted by Mr. McNamee who opened the session by reading a newspaper article concerning a discussion of alcoholism held at a recent meeting of the American Medical Association. (The medical profession now recognizes alcoholism as a medical responsibility.)

The final program drawn up by the group will be presented for approval at a large general meeting on January 17, 1951.

For the benefit of those not present at the previous meeting held in September, Mr. McNamee reviewed the highlights. A constitution was drafted and the question of a general chairman was discussed. A tentative budget of $7,500 was set for the first year and it was decided that the first project after the committee is firmly organized will be the establishment of an information center.

Mr. McNamee announced that Mr. Alan Pattee of Corral de Tierra has agreed to act as chairman pro tem. Sixty-eight people, all vitally interested in the project, have been contacted regarding participation and all have indicated willingness to attend the general meeting.

Mr. McNamee pointed out that people frequently ask where Alcoholics Anonymous fits into the program. The facts are that AA, as an organization, is not part of the committee. Its activities are mainly in the curative field and AA chapters are not permitted to affiliate with outside groups. The work of the committee is primarily educational and preventive. Certain leaders of AA will be on the committee as private citizens, and AA will be consulted as a resource just as will be the medical profession, lawyers, social agencies, etc.

The setting up of an Information Center was discussed at length. It was agreed that in order to get community support concrete results must be shown, as with the clinic in San Francisco which proved it actually saved tax payers dollars despite the expenses of the clinic, by reducing the number of alcoholics sent to jail, and by successful rehabilitation of many cases. However, before results can be shown a start must be made. A plan of membership will be worked out whereby members will agree to pay monthly dues for a stipulated number of months in order to launch the program.

At the first general meeting it is expected that the project will really start to function. The following will be the order of business: 1. A specific program of action will be proposed; 2. Constitution will be presented for approval. 3. Officers and Executive Committee will be elected. Later the chairman will appoint necessary subcommittees and advisory groups such as medical, legal, finance, etc.

Through the interest and cooperation of Mr. Samuel F. B. Morse of Del Monte Properties Company, the General Meeting will be held Wednesday, January 17, 1951, at 8 P.M., in the Indian Room of Del Monte Lodge. Letters of invitation will be mailed to all concerned on January 3.

Household Hint

To remove a heat mark from varnished woodwork, dampen a cloth with spirits of camphor or essence of peppermint. Daub this on the spot and let dry thoroughly, then polish. If the mark isn't too deep, this should do the work. If too deep, only refinishing is the answer.

By EDITH L. BRATTIN, F.R.H.S.

Camelias have been popular for years and, until our present generation, variations of Camelia Japonica were used for home gardens. Today one can buy camelias resembling nearly anything from a large single rose to a peony. These camelias are chiefly varieties of C. Sasanqua and have the advantages over the older types of more grace, less formality in growth, are hardier, and tolerate both heat and fog better.

Good drainage is more important to camelias than is their need for acid soil, though a slight acidity is advisable. Plant camelias in a mixture of equal parts of sandy loam, peatmoss (which is slightly acid) and leafmold. If you have some very well rotted pine needles they may be used as part of the leafmold feeder.

Camelias appreciate sunlight and, although they will bloom in the shade, they prefer full sun from the east or a filtering sunlight if in a south or southwestern exposure.

During the summer, feed them with a liquid fertilizer once a week and water them copiously, but as soon as the buds start to form withhold any additional feeding, for overfeeding at this time will often cause the buds to drop off. There are several good commercial fertilizers which have been designed to meet special requirements of rhododendrons, azaleas and camelias, and these may be used in place of the liquid fertilizer. Be sure to follow the directions given on the package carefully.

Camelias are not subject to to many pests or diseases. Thrip may cause some difficulty if your plants are near other Thrip infestation or if planted against a glaring wall. To help prevent thrip give the plants ample humidity by spraying the foliage often during warm weather. Occasionally Scale may be found on camelias. This may be controlled by using an oil base spray or an insecticide such as Orthorix.

Winslow Recital For Bardarson Fund

Last Sunday evening, on the anniversary of Otto Bardarson's death on December 17, 1942, Catherine Winslow, presented by Jesusa Guidi Fremont, her teacher, gave a piano recital for the benefit of the Otto W. Bardarson Scholarship Fund.

Her selections were well chosen to demonstrate her particular ability to charm an audience seeking a musical program which would delight and relax. She shows talent of a sort which interprets the music rather than stresses technique. However, her performance exhibited excellent training as well as sensitive understanding.

Chair-Sitting Punishment

By GARRY CLEVELAND MYERS, Ph.D.

ONE time an eminent business executive told me that he vividly remembered a kind of punishment he got from his mother when he was as old as ten or twelve. "She tied me by a single thread to the bedpost for half an hour. It was the most dreaded punishment I ever had, and I never ventured to break the thread."

You and I can understand this. It symbolized restraint. The child did not need to be watched. The thread kept the record.

Effective Punishment

As my regular readers well know, I have, for over twenty years, been urging parents to use the chair-sitting punishment, when punishment is needed, on the youngster from two to ten or twelve, being the first, I think, to offer this advice in print. This punishment is humane and effective. The youngster dislikes it more than he dislikes a spanking.

Just as the mother who tied that boy with a thread to punish him must have prepared him much earlier to respect her authority, so also the parent who employs chair-sitting punishment effectively has prepared her child to accept 'No' as final.

It would be silly to tell her child at ten or even four, who had committed a naughty deed, to sit in a chair for half an hour or fifteen minutes, respectfully, or to tie this child by a thread, if the youngster had not learned without doubt the meaning of 'No'.

In order, therefore, to render such humane punishment as chair-sitting effective with a child, his parents must have begun to train their child from the time he began to creep or toddle, in the unambiguous meaning of 'No' For this purpose some physical pain applied consistently and immediately to the youngster's bare hands or thighs is needed. Good techniques are presented in my bulletin, "How Teach Tot Meaning of No," which should be studied along with my bulletin on "Stubbornness." (Both may be had in a stamped envelope sent me in care of this paper.)

Young Child

Parents who are poised; who use pain only to restrain the young child from a very few acts or things he should avoid (and not to make him do something); who are consistent with themselves and with each other; who employ pain only when it can be immediate; who put most emphasis on making attractive what they wish the child to do; and who provide him with abundant understanding, affection and security are amazed at how very little physical pain is ever necessary.

For a few decades I have urged parents to aim to be done with spanking for deterrance of the child by the time he is three or four, certainly before he enters school, shifting to chair-sitting punishment if any punishment be needed, and later to isolation and deprivation of cherished privileges.

Requiring the young child to sit in a chair where he can be seen without amusement is usually much better than sending him to another room. While on a chair in the parent's view he can't easily get into more deviltry or easily find self-amusement.

Profiting from such restraint at three or four, he is the better prepared thereby to profit later from isolation or deprivation of privileges.

Ever so many parents write to say how very effective chair-sitting is for controlling the young child and how well it helps him escape spanking and tongue-lashing. Effective chair-sitting is always for a definite period as measured by the clock.

N. G. in U. S. Army

It seems very unfair that a man must be labeled N. G. (i.e. No Good) by his associates. in the army, even before they have had an opportunity to weigh his merits.

This exactly what has happened to a recruit in Company H of the 63rd Infantry Regiment. In fact, it's even worse than that! The man was tabbed as N.G. by the very selective service board which inducted him into the army.

The man is Recruit William Ying Ng, a native of Canton, China, and you must agree he can hardly be called anything but N.G. His very unusual surname is correctly pronounced "nng," but no one will take the trouble to do it.

Recruit Ng is 22 years old and has been in the United States since 1947. Born and educated in Canton, Ng was drafted into the Chinese Army at the age of 17. Because he had a commercial education in high school his duties were administrative. After three months he was discharged because, as he states, "the war was over and they didn't need me."

A private soldier in the Chinese Army receives approximately 1,000 yen a month for his services. At the time that Ng was serving this amounted to about fifteen dollars a month. By Chinese standards, soldiers had fairly good living conditions.

"Obviously, though, there is no comparison between the life of a Chinese soldier and that of an American," says Ng. Upon completion of his basic training, Recruit Ng hopes to attend Cooks and Bakers School. The next thing he intends to do is prefix an "e" to his unusual surname to avoid the connotation that he is N.G.

Musical Arts Club And Armed Services YMCA Present Xmas Concert

The Christmas Concert presented Sunday afternoon by the Musical Arts Club in conjunction with the Armed Services YMCA, gave a pleasant introduction to the holiday season.

Sickness of members made it impossible for the Treble Clef Trio to appear, but in lieu of this, Mrs. Adele Dankworth gave two readings with musical accompaniment. "The Usual Way" and "My Sister's Best Beau" brought chuckles from the audience.

James Farlinger, organist for the First Baptist Church of Monterey, who loaned his Hammond organ for the occasion, added to the Christmas spirit with an interesting and pleasing arrangement of "Lo, Now a Rose Ere Blooming."

John Farr, well known Peninsula baritone and music instructor at Carmel High School, presented two arias from the Messiah, showing excellent breath control in the many scale and running passages of which Handel was so fond. His final number, "Jesu Bambino," showed the lyric quality of his voice. He was accompanied by Mrs. Margaret Lee Fisher who also performed the final group of numbers of the program.

Her choice of three Christmas arrangements for the organ gave the full gamut of the Hammond registration in these compositions. "Christmas in Sicily," with its quiet yet rippling passages, proved Mrs. Fisher's able command of her instrument. "Let Carols Rings," a Swedish carol, was her second offering, and the melodic "Carol of the Bells" completed this group.

As an added surprise the audience had the opportunity of hearing a recording, belonging to Mrs. Carl Neutzel, program chairman for the Musical Arts Club, of Enrico Caruso singing the bass aria from the last act of "La Boheme."

". . . And now maybe you'd like some dessert?"

ANSWER TO THIS WEEK'S WHO IS IT?

Who Is It? Why, Mr. Jack Devana McCoy, of course, owner of the one business in Carmel in whose store human nature congregates to exchange compliments and point out to all who will listen Laddie's intelligence or Judy's cuteness. Jezebel's is the spot where action is ceaseless, sometimes disastrous, to be sure, as careless dog owners pass one another without judging leash lengths, but nevertheless constant--and interesting, for there are seldom dull moments in the day.

"Do you think this sweater will fit a six-months-old great Dane? Will it shrink?" Or, "Oh, I do hope you have chunks today, my Jerry just will not touch ground meat."

Participating interestedly in all the conversations is the owner of the shop, which has been in its present quarters on Seventh Street (across from the SPECTATOR office) in Carmel for the past year and a half, after first occupying Jezebel's Dog House on San Carlos. "How did we get the name? Well, when my wife first told me of her desire to open the shop in its original small quarters, I scorned, "That place isn't big enough for a dog house for Jezebel" (their own great Dane). Mr. Mc Coy was right in his estimate, as a growing business has testified.

Within a few weeks now customers will be asking, "What's that thing?" concerning some "rollers" which Mr. McCoy threatens to put in his windows. Do "rollers" have anything to do with dogs or canaries? No, but they have much to do with Mr. McCoy's favorite sport. A professional athlete for many years, he has not only been the number one man in the "thousand metre" from the West Coast and member of the American Olympic Team, open events in 1932, but has been and is a six-day bicycle race man, having competed on most of the large tracks in this country. Incentive? Sport itself, of course, plus contract wages to the winner of as much as $600 a day. In fact, Alfred Grenda, the Tasmanian, who rode 2,860 miles in six days, won $1,000. Nice sport if you can get it!

"I want to go to Europe to ride next year," says Mr. McCoy. Therefore, the rollers--for those are what he uses for indoor practice, using, of course, a regular racing bicycle for outdoor training. "The hardest part of this training business, though, is getting off the poundage, for to be successful one must have as carefully balanced weight for height as does any Miss America contest winner. Since 450 miles a day have to be covered in these races, extra baggage is no help!"

So, if business should get dull, anyone dropping into Jezebel's any day now may find its owner peddling back and forth between counter and dog dryers in the rear, practicing for that European bicycle race next year.

Nix Ballet for Soldiers Saturday

Mrs. Frank Ringland announces the date for the Christmas party the AWVS is sponsoring for service men as Saturday, December 23, at 8 P.M., in the Banquet Hall of the Mission Ranch. The entertainment will be presented by Joanne Nix and her ballet company. Two hundred service men from Fort Ord and the Presidio have been invited.

According to Mrs. Philip Schneeberger, chairman of the project, a few extra seats will be available. Those who missed seeing this delightful entertainment may see it on Saturday evening by helping to defray part of the expenses of the party.

For reservations and full details call the Mission Ranch, 7-3824.

The Saviour Is Born---Christmas ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Luke 2:1-20; Philippians 4:4-7.

Because Caesar Augustus decreed a general tax, Joseph of Nazareth and his affianced wife, Mary, went to Bethlehem because Joseph was of the house of David.

Finding no room at Bethlehem's inn, they were housed in a stable. There Mary gave birth to a son, whom she wrapped in swaddling clothes and laid in a manger

Shepherds watching their flocks in the fields near Bethlehem, were visited by an angel who told them the glad tidings that Christ the Saviour was born and where.

The shepherds went at once to see the Child, and then went back to their flocks, joyfully telling everyone they met of the wondrous birth.

MEMORY VERSE—Luke 2:10-11.

Every day between now and Christmas see the Animal's Party at the Del Monte Lodge Shops

There's a Toyland Forest right on the laun in front of the Pebble Beach Shops and many, many animals are there for their Christmas party. Boys and girls below the age of 11 who come closest to estimating the number of animals will win prizes. They are not hard to find and they are all in plain sight.

All you do is get an entry blank from one of the 12 shops. Have whoever brings you write your name and address on it and then go out and count the animals. Put the number on your entry blank and give it to the storekeeper who will turn it over to the judges. When the contest is over December 24th, the boy or girl who came closest will get $25.00 and the next 10 closest will get $5.00 each! It is a great deal of fun and grown-ups will like it, too, because it gives them plenty of time to do their Christmas shopping in 12 different kinds of stores.

There are beautiful imported and domestic gifts from $1.00 and up. Many wonderful bargains from the Peninsula's smartest shops.

2. OPEN FROM 10 A.M. TO 9 P.M. (Wonderful Christmas lighting).

BOTTLES & SINKS & HOUSES & THINGS

"I had twelve bottles of whiskey in my cellar, and my wife told me to empty the contents of each and every bottle down the sink, or else--

"So, I said I would and proceeded with the unpleasant task. I withdrew the cork from the first bottle and poured the contents down the sink, with the exception of one glass, which I drank. I extracted the cork from the second bottle and did likewise with the exception of one glass, which I drank. I then withdrew the cork from the third bottle and poured the whiskey down the sink, with the exception of one glass, which I drank. I pulled the cork from the fourth sink and poured the bottle down the glass, which I drank.

"I pulled the bottle from the cork of the next and drank one sink out of it, and threw the rest down the glass. I pulled the sink out of the next glass and poured the cork from the bottle. Then I corked the sink with the glass, bottled the drink and drank the pour.

"When I had everything emptied I steadied the house with one hand, counted the bottles, corks, glasses and sinks with the other, which were twenty-nine, and as the house came by, I counted them again, and finally had all the houses and bottles and corks and glasses and sinks counted, except one house and one bottle which I drank."

Christmas Cheer For our Service Men

Perhaps the most interesting and worthwhile entertaining to be done on the Peninsula this Christmas is that of the service men who are posted here at the various military centers--all of whose leaves have been cancelled.

Anyone who would like to gladden his Christmas Day and extend the borders of Christmas cheer will find many interesting boys eager to spend a few hours of their holiday time in a home atmosphere.

By calling 2-4511, extension 6236, the Special Service Office at Fort Ord, such boys can be reached. Many of them not only have special interests that will coincide with those of their hosts, but a large number of them are talented and have much to contribute to the Christmas festivities wherever they may be entertained.

AWVS under the chairmanship of Mrs. Philip Schneeberger and her able co-chairmen, Miss Alice Seckels and Mrs. Fritz T. Wurzmann, have been in charge of a program of Sunday evening entertainment for service men ever since last August.

This work merits the assistance of any and all of us on the Peninsula.

"Overprints" Subject of Stamp Club Talk

Colonel John R. Wright, president, presided at a meeting of the Monterey Peninsula Stamp Club, at Sunset School Cafeteria, Monday, December 18.

Door prizes, donated by L. S. Stallings and Mrs. N. Law, were won by Mrs. Irene H. Hatton, Mrs. Viola R. Bryant and Miss Lydia Weld. Program chairman L. S. Stallings introduced E. R. Blankenship, who gave a most informative talk on the 181 United States overprints, which he illustrated with two frames from his collection.

Mr. Stallings also introduced Colin M. McNaught of Wellington of New Zealand, who complimented Carmel and then described New Zealand and the Royal Philatelic Society, one of the five oldest societies in the world. He stated that interest in stamp collecting is increasing all over the world. "In New Zealand, 25 years ago," said McNaught, "a stamp collector did not admit it publicly." But stamps are now hunted in banks by every employee from the president to the office boy.

The next meeting of the club will be a stamp auction on January 15 at 8 p.m. in the Sunset School Cafeteria. All stamp collectors and friends are cordially invited.

Monterey Peninsula College Christmas Program

Sponsored by the drama and music departments of Monterey Peninsula College, with Mr. Franklin Gray and Dr. Harvey Marshall, directors of the two departments, in charge, a program was held last week at the Walter Colton Auditorium in Monterey. The traditional program featured Christmas carols sung by the chorus, a brass ensemble, and "The Emperor's New Clothes," a dramatic presentation in three scenes of the fairy tale by Hans Christian Anderson, written and staged by the students of the drama department.

Irene, to whom our radio songbirds, week after week, continue singing goodnight, must live at the North Pole, where the nights are six months long.

DADDY & THE DOG

"That's what you think, meatball, there's more gone in and out of these furry ears than you'd guess."

Daisybloom gave the dog a kick and he ran yelping into the kitchen.

"Hey, whatsa matter with that dog?" says George. "Here, Fido, here, Fido." And he whistled shrilly.

"Stop that whistling, you oaf," yells the dog from the kitchen. "What did I tell you?"

George looked first at his son who just smiled sweetly and then at Daisybloom who had burst into tears.

"What's going on here? Who taught that dog to talk? I should come all the way from Africa just to talk with a dog." He leaped to his feet dropping his son on the floor. It was then the little boy spoke his first words. "Take it easy, you garrulous aborigine," he said.

"Now who said that?" cried George.

"All right, father," said the boy. "I'll confess, I can talk as much as the next one. But a good deal of the trouble around here comes from talking. It is Christmas Eve and I would like a little peace and quiet and goodwill toward me and mother and that darn dog."
